

FIRST AMENDED COMPLAINT AND JURY CLAIM

Now comes the plaintiff, City of Gary, by and through its attorneys, and hereby brings the present action against the above-named defendants. The facts alleged in this First Amended Complaint are made on information and belief.

A. NATURE OF THE ACTION

The City of Gary (“Gary”) brings the present action to obtain relief from the defendants’ willful, deliberate, reckless, and negligent marketing and distribution of handguns which injure Gary and its citizens. Defendants design, manufacture, distribute, and sell thousands of handguns in a wrongful and negligent manner that foreseeably facilitates those guns to be ultimately purchased by juveniles, criminals, and other prohibited persons for use in the commission of crimes. Defendants intentionally employ a strategy which couples manufacturing decisions, marketing schemes, and distribution patterns with a carefully constructed veil of deniability regarding particular point-of-sale transactions. Through this calculated strategy of willful blindness, defendants exploit, rely upon, and help maintain an active illegitimate secondary market in handguns that is reasonably foreseeable by defendants. The resulting flood of guns for criminal use has created a public nuisance within the City of Gary by threatening the public health and safety of Gary’s citizens.

Each of the Defendants’ conduct creates, maintains, and contributes to a public nuisance in Gary because it is injurious to health and significantly interferes with the public’s health, safety, peace, and comfortable enjoyment of life or property, and because it is conduct which defendants knew or should have known to be of a continuous and long-lasting nature that produces a permanent and long-lasting significant negative effect on the rights of the public. Defendants’ conduct also constitutes actionable negligence because it violates defendants’ duty not to create an unreasonable risk of foreseeable harm, and has thereby proximately caused harm to the City of Gary and its citizenry.

The vast majority of handguns used to commit crimes in Gary, as throughout the country, are purchased or otherwise diverted from licensed dealers in a wide and ever changing array of schemes -- including sham or “straw” purchases, multiple sales, and diversions by corrupt dealers -- designed to supply guns to an illegitimate secondary market of felons, juveniles, and other dangerous individuals who could not legally purchase guns on their own. Defendants not only know that this diversion takes place; they depend upon it to increase their profits. Defendants have the ability to dramatically reduce the flow of handguns to this illegitimate secondary market by implementing readily available precautionary measures. They have chosen not to do so. Instead, they rely upon and exploit this illegitimate market as a steady and lucrative source of profit.

Defendants affirmatively rely upon the reasonably foreseeable laxness of dealers, and employees, and the ingenuity of criminals to ensure that thousands of handguns find their way to their expected place in the illegitimate secondary market. In order to facilitate this strategy, defendants have erected a veil of deniability between themselves and the distributors, dealers and salespersons. Defendants negligently avoid monitoring distributors, dealers and salespersons. They are careful not to provide adequate training or guidance to them. They do not curtail shipments or sales to distributors, dealers or purchasers who supply handguns to the illegitimate secondary market. Indeed, defendants make no efforts to ascertain which of their distributors, dealers or salespersons are supplying guns to criminals. What defendants do know -- what they depend upon and budget for -- is that so long as they continue their unreasonable and unlawful strategy of willful blindness, thousands of profitable handguns will get to their expected illegitimate buyers and users.

Defendant distributors and dealers are active in this enterprise. Defendant dealers make openly illegal sales without filling out required federal paperwork or conducting background checks on purchasers. Others conveniently look the other way while sales are made to straw purchasers or under circumstances where the dealer knows or should reasonably foresee that the gun will thereafter be diverted into the illegal secondary market to illegal buyers who will use the guns in crime in Gary.

From the perspective of the defendants, this strategy has been a resounding success. Producing and selling thousands of handguns for indirect but predictable sale on the illegitimate secondary market has been enormously lucrative for them. From the perspective of the City of Gary and its citizens, the consequences of this strategy have been nothing short of disastrous. Dozens of lives are lost each year in crimes committed with handguns supplied by the defendants in this fashion. Millions of dollars must be spent by the City to investigate and prosecute crimes committed with handguns supplied by the defendants in this fashion. Millions more dollars must be spent on emergency services and other costs responding to the crisis of violence in Gary wrongfully caused by Defendants. Put simply, defendants have adopted a strategy which allows them to sell thousands of handguns to criminals at enormous cost to the City of Gary and its citizens. Defendants have knowingly and unreasonably carried on their lucrative business at the expense of the City of Gary and its residents.

In addition, defendants have willfully, deliberately, and negligently marketed defective and unreasonably dangerous handguns which have injured the City of Gary and its citizens. Despite the foreseeable risk of injury and death attending the use of hand guns, the defendants have knowingly, willfully, and negligently failed to install even the most basic readily available safety features and have failed to adequately warn users of the latent dangers associated with the use of their product. Although inexpensive safety devices have existed for years, and in some cases, decades, to prevent the accidental pulling of the trigger, to indicate whether or not a gun is loaded, to prevent the firing of a gun when the magazine has been removed, and to prevent the firing of the gun by an unauthorized user, the defendants have knowingly and negligently failed to incorporate such devices into the handguns or to make them readily available to handgun purchasers.

Defendants have also made their guns unreasonably dangerous by their failure to provide any sort of meaningful warning on the products. Even a disposable lighter has certain safety devices and contains warnings regarding the risk of misuse of the product. In fact, some of the most common products used in homes warn of even obvious dangers attending their use. Nevertheless, despite the latent dangers designed into their products and their failure to provide adequate safety devices, the defendants have made no attempt to insure that the end user of their products is aware of the unreasonable risks involved with owning and using their products. Moreover, defendants have affirmatively and deceptively advertised and promoted their dangerous products as improving home and personal safety despite, as defendants are aware, well known empirical studies that indicate bringing a gun into the home increases rather than decreases the risks of injury and death to members of the household.

The defects in design of the products not only pose a danger to the owner and user of the products, but intentional, willful, and negligent defective design features of the products make them unreasonably dangerous to all citizens of Gary. Instead of developing design improvements to enhance the safety of the products, the defendants have willfully, intentionally, and negligently developed, designed and marketed their guns without such safety features.

As a direct and proximate result of the defendants' wrongful actions, not only has a public nuisance been caused in Gary, the plaintiff has also been seriously damaged because it has had to expend large amounts of money in investigating crime, preventing crime, transporting and treating the injured and those who have died, and supporting the victims of gun violence. Moreover, the City of Gary has lost revenue and substantial decreases in property value as a result of defendants' wrongful acts and omissions. For these reasons, the plaintiff seeks injunctive and compensatory relief as set forth herein.

C. JURISDICTION

28. The plaintiff's causes of action against the defendants arise from the defendants' transacting business in the State; contracting to supply services or things in the State; causing tortious injury by an act or omission in the State; causing tortious injury in the State by an act or omission outside of the State; regularly doing and soliciting business and engaging in other persistent courses of conduct and deriving substantial revenue from goods used or consumed or services rendered in the State; and having an interest in, using or possessing real property in the State.

D. SPECIFIC FACTUAL ALLEGATIONS

29. As is well known to defendants, the widespread availability and misuse of handguns by juveniles, felons, and other unauthorized users is a national problem of immense proportions. Gun violence is the second leading cause of injury-related death in the United States. In 1996, more than 34,000 people were killed with firearms. Of these, more than 14,300 were homicides and about 18,100 were suicides, with more than 1,100 deaths from unintentional shootings. This death toll strikes particularly hard at children and teenagers, with approximately 13 children a day killed by gunfire, or more than 4,600 a year. More than one child a day is killed in an unintentional shooting.

30. In addition, based on 1992 data, approximately 99,000 individuals are treated annually in hospital emergency rooms for non-fatal firearm injuries, with about one-fifth of these for accidental shootings. The cost of these shootings to cities like Gary is staggering. It is estimated that nationally, gun-related violence costs taxpayers more than $4.5 billion dollars per year. Most of these injuries and deaths are caused by handguns.

31. One of the most serious problems facing Gary, as with most major cities in the United States, is the high level of violent crime committed with handguns. For example, in 1997, more than 70 people were murdered with handguns in Gary, and another 54 people were murdered with handguns in 1998. There were also more than 400 firearm assaults and 400 firearm robberies in the city in both 1997 and 1998. In addition, the Gary Police Department seized more than 2,500 crime guns during those two years. At a minimum, for the period January 1997 through December 2000, the following number of handguns made by each of the following manufacturer defendants were recovered: Beretta U.S.A., 61 handguns; Browning Arms, 54 handguns; Bryco Arms (distributed by B.L. Jennings), 129 handguns; Charter Arms, 46 handguns; Colt's Mfg., 99 handguns; Davis, 109 handguns; Glock, 110 handguns; Hi-Point, 136 handguns; Lorcin, 200 handguns; Navegar, d/b/a/ Intratec USA, 77 handguns; Phoenix, 73 handguns; Smith & Wesson, 314 handguns; Sturm, Ruger, 361 handguns; and Taurus, 367 handguns. Thousands of additional guns used in crime in Gary during this period have not yet been recovered. Furthermore, during the period of January 1997 through December 2000, the following number of crime guns sold by each dealer defendant were recovered: Ameri-Pawn of Lake Station, 12 handguns; Blythes Sport Shop, 145 handguns; Cash Indiana, 181 handguns; Jack's Loan, 103 handguns; Jim Shema's Outdoor Sports, 82 handguns; and Westforth Sports, Inc., 241 handguns.

32. This staggering toll of handgun violence and crime is fueled by the easy movement of handguns from the defendants to unauthorized and illegal users through an illegal secondary handguns market.

33. As defendants are aware, surveys have consistently shown how easily juveniles and convicted criminals can obtain firearms. For example, one survey showed that approximately 29% of 10th grade boys and 23% of 7th grade boys have at one time carried a concealed handgun. A different survey of high school students and incarcerated juveniles reported that 32% of respondents asked adults to buy guns on their behalf. Yet another survey found that approximately 60% of children between the ages of 10 and 19 said they could acquire a gun should they want one, with 15% having carried a gun with them in the last 30 days. A survey of adult prisoners showed that 70% felt they could easily obtain a firearm upon their release.

34. Tracing of crime guns manufactured, distributed and sold by defendants by the Federal Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms (“ATF”) confirms that juveniles, felons, and other unauthorized users can easily obtain firearms for crime. A 1998 ATF study of 27 major urban centers throughout the United States, including Gary, which analyzed more than 75,000 guns traced to crime over a one-year period, reported that more than 11% of guns picked up in crime have been possessed by children under age 18. In Gary, the percentage of crime guns seized from juveniles was 11%. The same tracing study indicated that more crime guns are seized from persons in the next age group up – youths who are 18, 19 or 20 years old – than from any other three year age group, adult or juvenile. According to the 1998 ATF study, more than 26% of crime guns in the 27 cities were seized from children under 21, who cannot legally purchase handguns under federal or state law. A 1999 ATF study further concluded that “a large proportion of youth crime guns are quite new and most likely deliberately and illegally trafficked.” Moreover, ATF tracing of trafficked crime guns found that more than 45% of the weapons seized were illegally possessed by convicted felons. Large percentages of these guns have been used in assaults, robberies, homicides, and other violent crimes. More than 80% of the firearms seized in crime are handguns.
35. According to a 2000 ATF report on gun trafficking, “[v]irtually every crime gun in the United States starts off as a legal firearm.” The ease with which guns are moved into the illegitimate marketplace is also demonstrated by the short time between retail sale and criminal misuse (known as “time-to-crime”) for a significant percentage of handguns. ATF tracing data indicates that from 32-47% of firearms traced to crime in urban centers across America, including Gary, have been bought from retail dealers less than three years earlier, which is a strong indication that the firearm has been illegally trafficked. ATF data also indicates that nationally 15% of crime guns were purchased from retail dealers in the prior twelve months. According to ATF, while the average time-to-crime for 32 major urban centers was 5.7 years, the average time-to-crime for crime guns in the City of Gary was 2.9 years, the fastest of all cities in the report. ATF tracing data further indicates that approximately 74% of the crime guns most frequently seized in Gary were sold at retail less than three years earlier. For certain types of firearms, such as semiautomatic pistols, this time-to-crime is even more rapid, with the shortest time-to-crime period reported being one day. Defendant manufactures are responsible for manufacturing/selling 88% of the crime handguns recovered in Gary, and defendant dealers are responsible for selling 61% of the crime handguns recovered in Gary.

36. The flow of defendants' handguns into the unlawful market and into the hands of unauthorized and irresponsible persons, including youth under age 21 and convicted felons in Gary, has occurred in numerous ways, including but not limited to those methods listed below. Defendants knew or should have known of these methods of illegal diversion and could reasonably have easily taken action to control and prevent the diversion, but have intentionally, willfully, and negligently failed to do so.

- A. Thousands of guns have flowed into the unlawful market by an illegal method of diversion called "straw purchasing," wherein the purchaser buys the gun from a licensed dealer for a person who is not qualified to purchase the firearm under federal and state laws and regulations, such as a person under 21 or convicted felon. Indeed, in one recent law enforcement study, more than 50% of the firearms subject to firearm trafficking investigations had been acquired as part of a straw purchase. Many of these straw purchases have occurred under circumstances which have indicated or should have indicated to the firearm seller that a "straw purchase" was being made. Moreover, new ATF data indicates that when the identity of both individuals is known, about 89% of crime gun possessors are not the original purchaser of the gun, further suggesting that straw purchasing is rampant at gun stores.
- B. Thousands more guns have been diverted into the unlawful market after first being part of "multiple sales" wherein the purchaser buys more than one gun at a time or over a short period of time from a licensed dealer with the intention of later selling or transferring the gun to a person who is not legally qualified to purchase firearms under federal and state regulations, such as a person under 21 or convicted felon. Many multiple sales by defendants have occurred under circumstances that indicated or should have indicated to the firearm seller that the handguns being purchased were destined for the unlawful market via a straw purchase. The connection between multiple sales and crime guns is also established by new ATF data, which indicates that 22% of traced crime guns first sold in 1999 were part of a multiple sale. Moreover, among all traced handguns, those originally purchased in multiple sales transactions were particularly likely to have obliterated serial numbers. Defendants do nothing to curb multiple sales even though they reasonably should foresee that guns purchased in this manner are likely to flow into the illegitimate handguns market.

- C. For many years, defendants have sold thousands of handguns to “kitchen table” dealers, i.e., federally licensed firearm dealers who do not sell firearms from a retail establishment. A 2000 AFT report indicates that 56% of a random sample of federally licensed firearms dealers are kitchen table dealers. Many of these firearms dealers, although federally licensed, have sold handguns without completing background checks on purchasers or complying with other reporting requirements, or have otherwise diverted guns into the illegal marketplace. Although defendants knew or should have known of these dealers’ illegal practices and reasonable steps they could take to avoid the risk of these illegal practices occurring they have done nothing to prevent those illegal practices, but have instead wrongfully and unreasonably continued to supply the dealers with handguns in order to maximize their profits.

- D. Thousands of handguns have also reached the unlawful market after having been stolen from retail dealers and other federal firearm licensees who have failed to provide adequate security of their premises. Despite the foreseeability of such occurrences, defendants have failed to ensure that persons distributing their dangerous products have implemented readily avoidable and reasonably affordable measures adequate security to prevent these thefts.

- E. Thousands of firearms diverted to crime also have had their serial numbers obliterated to prevent tracing of the firearm by law enforcement. Such guns are more useful to criminals who seek to eliminate the tracks of their crimes. Defendant manufacturers are aware of this problem, and the ease with which serial numbers can be obliterated, but have taken no steps to make their serial numbers tamper-proof although they could easily have done so. A 1998 ATF study of 27 major urban centers found, on average, that more than 11% of the guns traced to crime had obliterated serial numbers.

F. Handguns also move across state boundaries into cities such as Gary. Recent ATF studies of crime guns seized in Gary indicated that approximately 20% of those guns were originally sold at retail outside of Indiana.

G. Handguns are also foreseeably diverted to crime through gun shows, where, as known to defendants, firearm sellers do not perform a background check on prospective purchasers. The result, according to one recent federal study, was that in 314 investigations involving gun trafficking through gun shows, felons were part of more than 46% of the transactions, with more than 54,000 firearms being diverted into the illegal marketplace.

37. The examples listed above are just some of the ways in which defendants' products, in ways foreseeable by defendants, have fallen into the hands of unauthorized and irresponsible persons, including persons under the age of 21 and convicted felons, and used in crime in Gary. A large proportion of crime guns recovered from these individuals are quite new and have most likely been deliberately and illegally trafficked. Moreover, in more than two-thirds of the firearms trafficking investigations reviewed in one study, known by defendants, improperly transferred firearms were shown to have been subsequently involved in additional crimes, a high percentage of which were violent crimes. Such criminal activity has damaged Gary and injured and killed its citizens.

38. Strong evidence of unlawful gun trafficking, often by specific dealers, is readily available to and often received by defendant gun manufacturers. ATF collects and disseminates to defendant gun manufacturers information describing crime gun patterns through crime gun tracing. This information, according to ATF's 1999 National Report on crime gun tracing, informs firearms manufacturers of crime gun patterns, "allowing them to build sounder and safer businesses." This same information, according to ATF, allows for identification of concentrations of crime guns coming from particular dealers. While federally licensed firearms dealers comprised less than 10% of recent ATF trafficking investigations, they were associated with the highest mean number of illegally diverted firearms per investigation – over 350 – and were associated with the largest overall number of diverted firearms – over 40,000. Furthermore, other ATF data indicates that in 1998 1.2% of federally licensed firearms dealers accounted for “well over” 50% of successful crime gun traces. A report by a United States Senator also revealed that between 1996 and 1998, a mere one-tenth of one percent of all federally licensed gun dealers, manufacturers and distributors, accounted for almost 20% of all successful ATF crime gun traces. Despite the readily available means to do so, defendants have failed to take any reasonable steps to curb the unlawful gun trafficking which causes a foreseeable and unreasonable threat to the safety and welfare of Gary’s citizens.

39. An undercover investigation conducted by Plaintiff in June and July, 1999, establishes that these negligent distribution practices are widespread by defendants in Northern Indiana. This investigation involved undercover members of the Gary Police Department. Several straw purchases were made on behalf of persons representing themselves to defendant dealers as convicted felons or juveniles. Other straw sales were made where the dealer did not know the criminal history or age of the intended buyer. Defendant dealers were more than willing to participate in these straw purchases. A few examples of specific conduct of the defendant dealers that negligently or intentionally facilitates the illegal possession and use of firearms in Gary, Indiana is set forth below:

A. On June 24, 1999, two officers entered the Cash Indiana Pawn Shop, at 387 Melton Road in Burns Harbor, Indiana. Officer 1 asked the clerk if he could see a Glock 27 semiautomatic pistol, and asked the clerk how long the wait would be before he could take the handgun with him. Officer 2 interrupted and said that he had a handgun permit and would purchase the gun for Officer 1. The clerk handed the paperwork to Officer 2, who completed it. Officer 1 handed the clerk the money, and the clerk finished the transaction and handed the gun to him, and Officer 1 walked out of the store with it, and with a box of ammunition he also purchased.

- B. On June 25, 1999, two officers entered Fetla's Trading Company in Valparaiso, Indiana. Officer 1 asked the clerk if he could see a Smith & Wesson model 457, .40 caliber pistol. Officer 1 inspected the gun and told the clerk he would take it. As he was approaching the cashier, Officer 1 told the clerk that he had been arrested for burglary, but did not know if he was a convicted felon. The clerk said that they would probably not give the gun to him. However, Officer 2 then stepped forward and said that he would get the gun for Officer 1. The clerk said that would be a straw purchase and would be illegal. Nevertheless, the clerk advised the officers to leave the store and return in 10 minutes, and then Officer 2 could buy the gun. The officers did that. Officer 1 paid for the gun and left the premises with it.
- C. On July 21, 1999, two officers entered the Cash Indiana Pawn Shop, at 387 Melton Road in Burns Harbor, Indiana. Officer 1 selected a .25 caliber Beretta handgun that he wanted to purchase. The clerk he had been speaking with received a phone call, and so handed the transaction off to a second clerk. The second clerk gave Officer 1 a form to fill out for the gun purchase, but at the portion of the form that asks about felony convictions, Officer 1 told the second clerk he had been convicted of felony battery and had served about a year in prison. The clerk said he would probably not be able to get the gun himself. At this point, Officer 2 asked if she could purchase the handgun for Officer 1 and the clerk said yes. While Officer 2 was filling out the paperwork, the clerk and Officer 1 began talking about how it was illegal for a felon to purchase a handgun. The clerk completed the transaction, told Officer 1 the price, received the money from Officer 1, and handed him the handgun and a box of ammunition he had purchased. Officer 1 also asked about assault weapons, and the clerk suggested Officer 1 just put them away on layaway and have Officer 2 pick up the guns when they were paid for. Officer 1 then left the store with the gun.
- D. On July 21, 1999, the two officers who had just purchased a gun from Cash Indiana Pawn shop in Burns Harbor, Indiana returned to purchase a second gun. The same clerk advised the officers that they could just add the second gun to the form that was completed earlier because she had not reported the information yet. Officer 1 paid for the second gun and left the store with it.

E. On July 23, 1999, two officers entered the Ameri-Pawn gun shop located at 3535 Central Avenue in Lake Station, Indiana. Officer 1 was posing as a juvenile. He was able to handle any gun with no questions asked about his age. Officer 1 then selected a .40 caliber Glock-23 pistol to purchase, but asked the clerk how old he had to be to purchase a handgun. The clerk advised him he had to be 21 years old. Officer 1 indicated he was only 20 years old and the clerk advised him he could not purchase the handgun. At this point, Officer 2 stepped forward and asked if he could purchase the gun for the juvenile and the clerk said yes. The clerk gave Officer 2 the paperwork to fill out. As Officer 2 was completing the form, Officer 1 asked about bullets for his gun, and asked the clerk to show him how to break down his gun, which the clerk did. Officer 1 also asked if the clerk had any high capacity magazines, and was told that they no longer make or sell these to the general public. However, Officer 1 pressed the clerk whether he had any in his personal collection and was told to check back the following day. The cost would be around $100.00. Officer 1 then paid for the weapon and three boxes of ammunition, and left the store with them.

F. On July 24, 1999, two officers entered Blythe's Sport Shop, located at 2810 North Calumet Avenue in Valparaiso, Indiana. Both officers selected guns for purchase: Officer 1 decided to buy a .40 caliber Smith & Wesson pistol, and Officer 2 decided to buy a used Smith & Wesson .357 magnum revolver. The clerk stated that both purchasers would need to provide Indiana identification and a gun permit. Officer 1 indicated he did not have any identification, and asked how old he had to be to buy a handgun. The clerk told him he had to be 21 years old. Officer 1 then informed the clerk he was only 20 years old. The clerk then took the gun from Officer 1 and said he could not buy it. However, after Officer 2 asked if he could buy the gun for Officer 1, the clerk said yes. The clerk asked if he wanted to make the purchase together, or keep it separate, and Officer 2 indicated he wanted to keep them separate. Officer 2 paid for the gun he was purchasing, as well as for a box of bullets. He then stepped aside and let Officer 1 pay for his gun and select the bullets, and the clerk completed this transaction and handed each officer their respective guns and ammunition.

G. On July 26, 1999, two officers entered Fetla's Trading Company in Valparaiso, Indiana. Officer 1 selected two Glock-19 9mm handguns for purchase, and openly asked which gun Officer 2 would like to purchase for herself. Officer 1 told the clerk he would take both handguns. At the cashier, Officer 2 indicated she was buying both handguns and filled out the paperwork. Officer 1, however, paid for both guns and left the store with them.

H. On July 27, 1999, two officers entered Cash Indiana Pawn Shop in Burns Harbor, Indiana. Officer 1 selected two guns, a Glock model 19, which came with a 15-round magazine along with the standard 10-round magazine, and a .38 caliber Smith & Wesson revolver. Officer 1 said he wanted to get one gun for himself and one for his partner, Officer 2. When handed the paperwork, Officer 1 told the clerk he did not have gun permit, but Officer 2 did. The clerk then handed the paperwork to Officer 2 to fill out. Officer 1 paid for both guns and two boxes of ammunition, and left the store with the weapons.

I. On July 27, 1999, two officers entered Ameri-Pawn in Lake Station, Indiana. Officer 1 examined a couple of guns and selected a Taurus 9mm handgun for purchase. It came with a 15-round magazine. The clerk asked Officer 1 if he had a gun permit, and he said no. Officer 2 then said that she had a permit, and the clerk stated that they should put the sale in her name so he would not have to make a background check call. The clerk completed the sale, taking money from Officer 1 and selling him a box of ammunition, and Officer 1 left the store with the gun.

40. Over the course of the undercover investigation, officers were able to straw purchase at least nine handguns and numerous boxes of ammunition for persons who openly declared to the store clerks they were convicted felons or juveniles, or in situations where the clerks wrongfully failed to obtain any information on the criminal history or age of the intended purchaser.

41. The harm caused to Gary and its citizens by handgun violence is widely publicized, is a matter of common knowledge and well known to defendants. Gang-related shootings and other shooting incidents are regularly reported in the Post-Tribune, Times, and the Chicago newspapers circulated in Northwestern Indiana, and other local and national media. This public information confirms that juveniles and convicted felons are readily obtaining and using handguns manufactured, distributed and sold by defendants to harm Gary and its residents.
42. The fact that a substantial percentage of the handguns used to inflict the harm to Gary and its citizens by gun violence are obtained through the illegitimate secondary market is also publicized and is common knowledge among defendants. For example, firearm tracing reports on crime guns prepared by ATF for Gary, and other urban centers across the United States are publicly available, and several can be accessed over the internet. Many of these reports have been available to defendants for years. Thus, defendants knew or should have known that a substantial percentage of the handguns manufactured, distributed and sold by them and used to inflict the harm to Gary and its citizens by handgun violence are obtained through the illegitimate secondary market.
43. Moreover, defendants are aware that specific guns they have made and/or sold have been traced to crime because ATF has contacted them in conducting traces of crime guns. Indeed, ATF trace reports provide each manufacturer and distributor defendant with constant notice about the number of guns being used in crimes. From January 1, 1995 through December 31, 2000, for example, the number of guns traced by ATF as part of criminal investigations was approximately 1,000,000, with about 200,000 or more guns now traced each year. These traced guns are just a small fraction of the guns recovered in criminal investigations by law enforcement over those years. Nearly all of those traces begin with ATF contacting the firearm's manufacturer and providing it the serial number of the gun being traced, and the manufacturer providing ATF the name of the distributor to whom the gun was sold, and the date of the sale. These trace requests are a constant reminder to defendants that their distribution system is supplying an overwhelming number of guns into an unlawful market in Gary and elsewhere leading directly to firearms violence and crime, and are also a means by which defendants could determine which distributors and dealers in their distribution systems are sources of excessive numbers of crime guns. Despite these constant notices, defendants have failed to take even the simplest of reasonable steps to modify or oversee their distribution system to prevent the diversion of firearms into the unlawful market and, thereafter, into Gary.

44. The ATF tracing data, which has not been generally available to plaintiffs, but important aspects of which are in defendants' possession or control, also indicates, according to a report issued by a United States Senator, that a very high percentage of crime guns that have been successfully traced have been funneled through a small set of federally licensed dealers. Each of these dealers sold more than 50 guns used in crime in 1998, and over the period 1996-98, these dealers were the source of almost 35,000 crime guns, an average of more than 250 crime guns per dealer. The data in this report also indicates that a third of the crime guns successfully traced to these dealers were sold within one year of the crime, and half of the guns were traced to crimes within two years of the original sale. Yet more than 87% of the crime guns were recovered from someone other than the original purchaser, reasonably establishing that most of these guns were likely deliberately and illegally trafficked into crime. This data reinforces the fact that defendants could take meaningful, reasonable and available steps to control their chain of distribution to curb the diversion of their handguns into the illegitimate secondary market, but have unreasonably failed to do so despite the foreseeable unreasonable risk of harm that failure created, and continues to create, to Gary and its citizens.

45. Robert Haas, the former Senior Vice-President of Marketing and Sales for defendant Smith & Wesson, said the following in a sworn statement concerning gun manufacturers' failure to promote responsible practices by distributors and dealers:

The company [Smith & Wesson] and the industry as a whole are fully aware of the extent of the criminal misuse of handguns. The company and the industry are also aware that the black market in handguns is not simply the result of stolen guns but is due to the seepage of guns into the illicit market from multiple thousands of unsupervised federal handgun licensees. In spite of their knowledge, however, the industry's position has consistently been to take no independent action to insure responsible distribution practices, to maintain that the present minimal federal regulation of federal handgun licensees is adequate and to call for greater criminal enforcement of those who commit crimes with guns as the solution to the firearm crime problem . . . I am familiar with the distribution and marketing practices of the [sic] all of the principal U.S. handgun manufacturers and wholesale distributors and none of them, to my knowledge, take additional steps, beyond determining the possession of a federal handgun license, to investigate, screen or supervise the wholesale distributors and retail outlets that sell their products to insure that their products are distributed responsibly.

46. In 1999, Robert Hass's statement was echoed by Robert Lockett, a firearms dealer named the 1993 Dealer of the Year by the National Alliance of Stocking Gun Dealers, in an article published in Shooting Sport Retailer, a firearms industry trade magazine. The article stated, in part:

I've been told INNUMERABLE times by various manufacturers that they 'have no control' over their channel of distribution. I've been told INNUMERABLE times that once a firearm is sold to a distributor, there is no way a manufacturer can be held responsible for the legal transfer and possession of a firearm. . . .

IF YOU DO NOT KNOW WHERE AND HOW YOUR PRODUCTS ARE ULTIMATELY BEING SOLD - YOU SHOULD HAVE KNOWN OR ANTICIPATED THAT THEY WOULD BE ILLEGALLY SOLD AND SUBSEQUENTLY MISUSED.

Let's just get down and dirty. We manufacture, distribute, and retail items of deadly force. . . . Your arguments of yesterday regarding lack of accountability were pretty flimsy. Today, they are tenuous at best. Tomorrow, they are not going to indemnify you. We are going to have to get a whole lot better - and fast - of being in control of our distribution channel.

47. Defendants could have, through means within their control, prevented handguns they manufacture, market, distribute, and sell from flowing into the illegitimate market and into the hands of unauthorized and irresponsible persons, thereby causing harm to plaintiffs. For example, and by way of illustration only, defendants could have taken, but have failed to take, the following reasonably available steps to control the distribution and sale of their handguns to substantially restrict or impede the unlawful flow of handguns into Gary:

- A. adequately investigate or screen the distributors and dealers through which defendants distribute and sell firearms;
- B. adequately monitor, supervise, regulate, and standardize their distributors' and dealers' methods of distributing and selling firearms;
- C. conduct research, or heed existing research, that would have allowed them to better monitor and control the flow of firearms to the unlawful secondary market, and then implement the recommended preventive strategies;
- D. establish a tighter and more direct distribution system in which defendants remain in control of the distribution of their lethal products;
- E. adequately train and encourage their distributors and dealers to act lawfully and responsibly to ensure compliance with federal, state, and local laws;
- F. direct and encourage their distributors and dealers to refuse to sell firearms under circumstances where the distributor or dealer knows or should know that the firearms will likely not be used for the purchaser's personal use or otherwise will likely not be used for legal purposes;
- G. require their distributors and dealers to refuse to sell more than one handgun per month to any person not holding a federal firearms license, and to track sales to enforce this restriction;
- H. require their distributors and dealers to sell only to "stocking dealers," i.e., retailers who stock guns for sale from retail stores, and refrain from selling guns over the Internet, at gun shows, or to "kitchen table" dealers;

- I. require their distributors and dealers to certify their compliance with all firearms laws and regulations, and to provide documentation of their sales employees' and agents' eligibility to sell guns;
- J. require their distributors and dealers to carry a specified minimum amount of liability insurance coverage at all times;
- K. refrain, and require their distributors and dealers to refrain, from using any incentive sales practices that reward a salesperson or a purchaser based on sales or purchase volume;
- L. require their distributors and dealers to meet reasonable, specified security requirements to prevent theft of firearms;
- M. require their distributors and dealers to maintain computerized inventory tracking programs containing detailed information about the acquisition and disposition of every gun, and subject their distributors and dealers to audits of their inventory and to sanctions for any firearms for which the distributor or dealer cannot account;
- N. require their distributors and dealers to maintain records of trace requests initiated by law enforcement agencies, and to report those trace requests to the manufacturer of each firearm traced;
- O. maintain records of trace requests that they receive from law enforcement, and track and analyze where and when in the commercial distribution chain the gun may have been diverted to crime, and take preventive measures to reduce such diversions; and
- P. institute and promulgate effective training, monitoring, and sanctions practices to enforce these requirements, including terminating or otherwise effectively disciplining distributors and dealers whom they know or should know distribute firearms into the unlawful market or in an illegal or unsafe manner.

Q. train all salespersons as to the laws and regulations regarding handgun sales and the objective indicators of unqualified purchasers and illegal sales.

48. ATF has concluded that preventing the illegal supply of firearms to prohibited persons, including juveniles and adult felons, is necessary to reduce violent crime in Gary.
49. Defendant manufactures and distributors have the ability to require and to enforce responsible distribution practices by requiring their dealers to enter into agreements under which the dealers may be suspended or terminated for failure to adhere to specified business practices. Defendant Smith & Wesson, for example, reportedly sent an ethical practices agreement to each of its 3500 registered dealers indicating that any dealer that did not sign and return the agreement by the end of 1999 would lose stocking dealer status. The agreement requires that each dealer maintain a bona fide store premise, be familiar and comply with all laws and regulations governing firearm sales, employ trained sales personnel who will adhere to all legal requirements, and refrain from making sales to “straw purchasers” or any other person that the dealer has reason to believe made a false or misleading statement. The agreement allows Smith & Wesson to terminate or suspend a stocking dealer’s rights if the dealer’s business practices are called into question. These provisions indicate that gun manufacturers can take reasonable steps to prevent, reduce, and eliminate negligent distribution practices by their dealers.
50. On March 17, 2000, Smith & Wesson entered into a settlement agreement, attached as Exhibit A, with several municipalities, including the City of Gary, and several federal government agencies, all of which agreed either to discontinue or forego litigation against the manufacturer. The settlement agreement has numerous requirements designed to address and remedy the negligent, reckless and willful conduct described in this Amended Complaint. The settlement agreement requires Smith & Wesson, inter alia, to sell only to authorized dealers who adhere to a stringent code of conduct; to allow dealers to release guns only to purchasers who have cleared a NICS background check, even if the check takes longer than the current legal standard 3 business days; to allow dealers to immediately release only one gun to an individual purchasing multiple guns and wait 14 days before providing the others; to require dealers to maintain an electronic record of crime gun traces and report them to Smith & Wesson every month; to design every firearm so that it cannot be readily operated by a child under the age of 6 within one year; to include chamber loaded indicators on all pistols within one year; and to terminate sales to any dealer who sells a disproportionate number of guns used in crime. Smith & Wesson's willingness to be bound by the terms of this settlement agreement demonstrates the feasibility of the changes and remedies proposed by the City of Gary in this Amended Complaint.

51. Defendants' willful, deliberate, reckless, and negligent distribution of guns is exacerbated by the unsafe design of their guns, and, specifically, their failure to incorporate features which would inhibit unlawful access, transfer, or theft by criminals, juveniles, and other prohibited or unauthorized users. The defective design of defendants' guns further results in thousands of unintentional shooting deaths and non-fatal injuries every year. The General Accounting Office has estimated that each year, 23% of the 1,400 to 1,500 unintentional shooting deaths occur because the user of the gun was not aware that a round of ammunition had been loaded into the gun's firing chamber. This causes as many as 320 to 345 deaths nationwide each year. For each of these deaths, there are countless other unintentional shooting injuries that are not fatal. This appalling total is one of the reasons the firearm death rate among children aged 14 and under in the United States is nearly 12 times higher than the combined rate in 25 other industrialized countries. A number of these unintentional shootings have occurred in Gary.

52. Unintentional shootings with unreasonably unsafe handguns manufactured, distributed and sold by defendants often involve adolescents. According to the General Accounting Office, approximately 35% of all unintentional shooting deaths involve users of guns who were between the ages of 13 and 16. A number of these unintentional shootings occur in Gary. Defendants are aware that adolescents are naturally attracted to accessible handguns and notoriously discount the risks associated with handling a firearm.

53. The unsafe design of defendants' handguns also result in thousands of adolescent suicides. Studies have indicated that the odds that potentially suicidal adolescents will kill themselves double when a gun is kept in the home. Moreover, for many years, a youth aged 10-19 has committed suicide with a gun about every six hours. Guns are the method used in 65% of male teen suicides and 47% of female teen suicides. Among 15-19 year-olds, firearm-related suicides have been estimated to account for 81% of the increase in the overall rate of suicide from 1980-1992. A number of such firearm-related teen suicides have occurred in Gary.

54. Defendants' failure to use and/or incorporate "personalized" gun technology to prevent unauthorized and/or prohibited users, including juveniles and felons, from obtaining access to and firing their handguns also results in thousands of homicides and other crimes committed by those users, a number of which occur in Gary. Many of these homicide victims or victims of other crimes are themselves children and teenagers. The perpetrators of these crimes gain access to these guns in numerous ways. Gun manufacturers are in the best position to conduct a reasonable amount of research and development to correct the design of their products and to make them safer for children and less usable to minors and criminals. Defendants have been aware of the need for design features which would inhibit straw purchases, the reuse of stolen weapons, and accidental discharges by unauthorized users. However, defendants have failed to research, develop, and implement feasible, available technology to safeguard the public.
55. At all pertinent times, it was reasonably foreseeable that defendants' guns would fall into the hands of unauthorized users as a result of defendant's negligent and otherwise wrongful conduct. There are guns in approximately one-half of the homes in this country. One survey reports that 30% of these gun owners who have children in the home keep their guns loaded. Another survey reports that 36% of gun owners with children in the home keep their guns unlocked. The Federal Centers for Disease Control and Prevention estimates that 1.2 million elementary-aged, latch-key children have access to guns in their homes. Moreover, nearly 60% of children between the ages of 10 and 19 have responded in surveys that they can acquire a gun should they want one. Defendants know or should know this information.
56. At all pertinent times, defendants have been aware, or should have been aware, that when unauthorized users gained access to defendants' guns, tragic, preventable shootings would result. Unintentional shootings, especially among children, teen suicides, and homicides and other crimes committed by juveniles and other unauthorized users could substantially be eliminated had defendants made more reasonable efforts to implement safer gun designs, including the incorporation of locks or built-in locking systems to “personalize” guns, and the addition of magazine-disconnect safeties, chamber loaded indicators, and other feasible safety measures. Defendants have failed to incorporate these feasible safety mechanisms and measures in the guns they sell. The defendants further knew or should have known that by failing to make and sell handguns with the means to prevent their firing by unauthorized or prohibited users, handguns obtained by children, stolen from private residences, gun stores and other locations; or otherwise unlawfully obtained, would be employed by unauthorized or prohibited users in violent and/or criminal acts.

57. Gary and its citizens, particularly its youth, have been repeatedly victimized by defendants’ unreasonably dangerous products. A number of children in Gary have been grievously injured and/or killed because defendants’ handguns are sold negligently and wrongfully manufactured and without the means to prevent their use by unauthorized users, without adequate warnings that would prevent such shootings by alerting users of the latent risks of handguns, and without adequate instruction regarding the importance of proper storage of handguns.

58. At the time the defendants manufactured, distributed, promoted and/or sold these guns, defendants knew or should have known of the unreasonable dangers of their guns, including those described in the foregoing paragraphs. Defendants were also aware of, and had readily available to them, safety devices, warnings, and other measures, which would prevent and/or decrease these dangers. Further, defendant gun manufacturers are best positioned to conduct the reasonable research and development to correct the unreasonably dangerous designs of their products to make it safer and less accessible to minors and criminals. However, defendants have wrongfully failed to research, develop, and implement existing technology to remedy these deficiencies in their guns, warnings, instructions, promotions and advertising, all of which would safeguard the public. Defendants also wrongfully failed to adequately warn customers of these dangers, failed to inform customers or distributors of available devices and measures which could prevent or decrease these dangers, and failed to incorporate these life-saving devices into their guns.

59. At all times pertinent, these defendants purposefully and intentionally or negligently engaged in these activities, and continue to do so, knowing full well that their products could be sold and/or made with the means to prevent their firing by unauthorized users. Furthermore, these defendants purposefully and intentionally engaged in these activities knowing that citizens of Gary would foreseeably fall victim to death or serious injuries caused by the actions of unauthorized users of guns. As a consequence, defendants knew or should have known that the City of Gary would be damaged as a result of their irresponsible conduct.

60. At all times pertinent, manufacturing and distributing defendants, who account for most of the handguns sold to the general public, have knowingly and intentionally acted in concert with each other and, with defendant trade associations, have tacitly agreed or cooperated, and/or have adhered to industry-wide standards or customs with respect to, among other things:

A. their failure to develop and implement the means to prevent their handguns from being fired by unauthorized users;

B. discouraging the development and implementation of the means to prevent handguns from being fired by unauthorized or prohibited users;

C. their failure to develop and implement other safety features; and

D. their failure to issue adequate warnings alerting users of the risks of handguns and to the importance of proper storage and handling of guns.

61. For years, and continuing to date, defendants have knowingly, purposefully, intentionally, and/or negligently misled, deceived and confused Gary's citizens regarding the safety of handguns. To increase sales and profits, defendants have falsely and deceptively claimed through advertising and promotion of their handguns that the ownership and possession of handguns in the home increases protection of one's home and person, and that the ownership of handguns enhances personal security. The defendants have also falsely represented that handguns without locks or built-in locking devices are safe. For example, the defendants have promoted handguns with slogans such as "homeowner's insurance," "tip the odds in your favor," "your safest choice for personal protection" and have a "good night."

62. Defendants have made these false and deceptive advertising and promotional claims even though they knew or should have known the fact, as proven by numerous studies, that handguns in the home actually increase the risk of harm to firearm owners and their families. Defendants also knew or should have known that handguns without locking devices on them are not reasonably safe. Indeed, as defendants are aware, studies have indicated that:

- A. one out of three handguns is kept loaded and unlocked in the home;
- B. guns kept in the home for self-protection are 22 times more likely to be used to kill or injure someone known by their owners, than to kill or injure an intruder;
- C. a gun is used for protection in fewer than two percent of home invasion crimes when someone is home; and
- D. for every time a gun in the home was used in a self-defense or legally justifiable shooting, there were four unintentional shootings, seven criminal assaults or homicides, and eleven attempted or completed suicides with a gun.

63. Also, as known to defendants, more than 30 years ago a staff report of the U.S. Commission on the Causes and Prevention of Violence, entitled "Handguns and Violence in American Life," noted an increasing number of firearm deaths and injuries and concluded:

[Americans] may seriously overrate the effectiveness of guns in protection of their homes. In our urbanized society the gun is rarely an effective means of protecting the home against either the burglar or the robber [A gun in the home] provides a measure of comfort to a great many Americans, but, for the homeowner, this comfort is largely an illusion bought at the high price of increased accidents, homicides, and more widespread illegal use of guns. . . . When the number of handguns increases, gun violence increases. (Pages xiii, 139.)

64. These statistics have been proven real in Gary, where numerous deaths and injuries have occurred because handguns were purchased for home protection but were thereafter foreseeably used in unintentional shootings, teen suicides, domestic disputes and other acts of violence.

65. Defendants' conduct violates and undermines the laws, regulations, and public policies of the State of Indiana and the federal government, which, inter alia, restrict who may purchase, own, or carry handguns and other firearms, and require specific permitting procedures limiting access to deadly weapons.

66. Defendants joint and individual unlawful conduct has caused the City of Gary to incur public costs for the care and treatment of both intentional and accidental gunshot injuries. Moreover, the City has suffered economic injury as a result of increased spending on, among other things, law enforcement, emergency rescue services, increased security at public buildings, pensions, disability benefits, unemployment benefits, higher jail costs, and intervention programs. The City has further been damaged by lower tax revenues and substantially lower property values.

COUNT I
(PUBLIC NUISANCE)

67. The Plaintiff incorporates herein by reference paragraphs 1 through 66 as set forth above.

68. Under Indiana Code § 34-19-1-1, “[w]hatever is: (1) injurious to health; (2) indecent; (3) offensive to the senses; or (4) an obstruction to the free use of property; so as essentially to interfere with the comfortable enjoyment of life or property, is a nuisance, and subject of an action. Similarly, under the common law of Indiana, a public nuisance includes what is injurious to the public’s health, safety, peace, and comfortable enjoyment of life or property.

69. Defendants' joint and several ongoing wrongful conduct relating to their creation, promotion, support, and supply of an illegitimate secondary market for handguns has created, maintained, and contributed to a public nuisance in the City of Gary. Thousands of handguns that they directly, or indirectly, wrongfully supply to the illegitimate handgun market are thereafter used and possessed in connection with criminal activity in Gary. As a result of the easy availability and continued use in crime of many of these handguns after they enter the Gary, Gary has been damaged, and residents of Gary have been and will continue to be killed and injured by these handguns. Moreover, residents of Gary will continue to fear for their health, safety and welfare and will be subjected to conduct that interferes with the comfortable enjoyment of their life and property.
70. Defendants have intentionally, negligently and wrongfully interfered with the rights of the citizens of Gary to be free from avoidable injury and death, have caused damage to the public health, the public safety and general welfare of the residents of the City of Gary, and have thereby wrongfully caused the Plaintiff to incur enormous costs in support of the health, safety and welfare of its citizens and in attempting to abate.
71. The presence of numerous illegitimately possessed and used handguns Gary caused by defendants, the widespread distribution of unreasonably dangerous handguns in Gary, and defendants false and deceptive advertising and promotion regarding the safety of handguns for home and personal use, proximately results in significant costs to the City to enforce the law, arm its police force and to treat the victims of handguns. Gary also suffered and continues to suffer substantial economic barriers due directly to the nuisance created and maintained by defendants being publicized and causing severe devaluation of its real property and that of its citizens. Stemming the flow of handguns into the illegitimate handguns market, creating safer handguns, and stopping the deceptive statements regarding the dangers of handguns, will help abate the nuisance, for to do so will take the handguns away from criminals and juveniles and will save lives, prevent injuries and will make the City of Gary a safer place to live.

COUNT II
(NEGLIGENT DISTRIBUTION AND MARKETING)

72. The Plaintiff incorporates herein by reference paragraphs 1 through 71 as set forth above.

73. Defendants conduct is negligent and breached their duty of care to Gary and its citizenry by creating and supplying and supporting an illegitimate secondary market for handguns, whose buyers consist of convicted felons, gang members, youth under the age of 21, and other prohibited firearm purchasers and users. Defendants created this market or negligently failed to inhibit its formation and functioning by failing to exercise reasonable care in marketing, manufacturing the distribution and sale of their handguns. Defendants failed to prevent or limit straw purchases; to prohibit or restrict sales to kitchen table and/or corrupt dealers; to prevent multiple purchases of their handguns; to prevent diversion of their handguns at gun shows; to require distributors and dealers to secure their handguns from theft; and to prevent the illegal movement of handguns into Indiana, although they could have by making reasonable efforts to do so.

74. Defendants are individually and jointly negligent because they unreasonably do so:

- A. market and distribute their handguns without exercising reasonable supervision or control over distributors, dealers and salespersons;
- B. market, distribute and sell their handguns in such a way that it is reasonably foreseeable that they would be acquired by unauthorized and irresponsible persons, including youth under the age of 21 and felons;
- C. unreasonably cause and/or permit their handguns to be marketed and distributed to unauthorized and irresponsible persons, including young people incapable of appreciating the dangers and hazards of these products, as well as felons;

- D. fail to implement reasonable controls to regulate the distribution and sale of handguns, including even failing to investigate the background and business practices of the distributors, dealers and retail sellers of their handguns;
- E. fail to take reasonable efforts to ensure that their handguns are not acquired by unauthorized and irresponsible persons, including persons under 21 and convicted felons.
- F. to adequately train their agents, servants and employees concerning the proper precautions needed to be taken in the distribution and sale of handguns.

75. In short, defendants have breached their duty of care to market, distribute, and sell their products in a reasonably safe manner that would prevent or limit their accessibility to unauthorized and irresponsible users. Instead, they have negligently distributed, marketed and sold their products so as to avoid any meaningful training, monitoring, or disciplining of distributors, retailers, and salespersons -- despite their knowledge that their negligence causes and fosters an illegal secondary market that is responsible for many of the handguns involved in criminal activity in the City of Gary.

76. Defendants knew or reasonably should have known and foreseen that their negligent conduct would create an illegitimate secondary market in handguns that has cause and continue to cause tort damages by requesting it to expend substantially more resources than it otherwise would in the form of police services, emergency medical services, pension benefits, disability benefits, workers' compensation benefits, health care, expenses to provide additional security measures in public schools and other public facilities and loss of property values.

77. Defendants were and are also negligent in that they actively market their products in a manner that fails to alert possessors and users, as well as retailers, the substantial and latent risks of their handguns. Defendants negligently represents that the purchase of a firearm would enhance household security, that handguns are safe, and that families could safely store handguns unlocked and accessible to minors.

COUNT III
(NEGLIGENT DESIGN)

78. The Plaintiff incorporate herein by reference paragraphs 1 through 77 as set forth above.
79. The defendant manufacturers owed a duty to Gary, and its citizens to act in a reasonably prudent manner in regards to the design of their handguns.
80. Defendant manufacturers violated this duty and were negligent in designing the handguns in a manner such that the defendants foresaw or should have foreseen that the products would pose unreasonable risks of harm to the citizens of Gary who are unaware of the dangers of a firearm or untrained in the use of handguns, or who are minors or mentally impaired persons.
81. Defendant manufacturers specifically violated this duty by designing guns which they knew or should have known did not have adequate safety devices, including, but not limited to the following:
- a. devices that prevent the products from being fired by unauthorized users;
 - b. devices that increase the pressure required to activate the trigger;
 - c. devices that alert users that a round is in the chamber;
 - d. devices that prevent these products from being fired when the magazine is removed from them; and
 - e. devices that would inhibit unlawful use by prohibited or unauthorized users.
82. All defendants further violated their duty by negligently designing, manufacturing, distributing and/or selling guns with inadequate, incomplete, or nonexistent warnings regarding the risks of harm of the product, including, but not limited to:
- a. The risks that children could gain access to and discharge their products resulting in serious injury or death;
 - b. How to properly store the products to prevent suicide, accidental injury, or theft;
 - c. That the product was subject to theft and use in a crime if improperly stored;
 - d. That a round of ammunition may be in the chamber of their products;
 - e. That their products could be fired even with the ammunition magazine removed or without the trigger being pulled;
 - f. That the products may not contain any safety devices;
 - g. That training is necessary for the safe handling of the product; and
 - h. That a gun in the home dramatically increases rather than decreases the risk of injury to members of the household.

83. Defendants have also knowingly and intentionally acted in concert with each other, have tacitly agreed or cooperated, and/or colluded to wrongfully adhere to industry-wide standards or customs with respect to, among other things:

- a. Their failure to develop and implement the means to prevent their guns from being fired by unauthorized users;
- b. Discouraging the development and implementation of the means to prevent guns from being fired by unauthorized or prohibited users;
- c. Their failure to develop and implement other safety features; and
- d. Their failure to issue adequate warnings alerting users of the dangers of guns and to the importance of proper storage of guns.

84. As a direct and proximate result of the defendants' aforesaid negligent intentional and wrongful acts and omissions, the handguns manufactured, distributed and sold by the defendants have damaged Gary and harmed its citizenry, thereby causing Gary to incur substantial expenses for police and other law enforcement services, rescue services, emergency medical services and other emergency services, pension benefits, disability benefits, workers' compensation benefits, health care, jail costs, increased security and other services in public facilities and other necessary facilities and services due to the threat of or actual use of the defendants' handguns.

85. Furthermore, as a proximate result of the defendants' manufacture, sale and distribution of unreasonably dangerous and defective handguns, Gary has suffered diminished tax revenues and property values.

DAMAGES
RELIEF REQUESTED

WHEREFORE, Plaintiff requests judgment against Defendants jointly and severally:

1. For reimbursement of the expenses it has incurred in trying to abate the public nuisance created, fostered and contributed to by defendants, including costs and attorneys fees.
2. For monetary damages sufficient to compensate Gary for the damages caused by the defendants' wrongful design, manufacture, marketing, advertising, distribution and sale of handguns;
3. Awarding punitive damages as to each and every defendant in a sufficient amount to punish and deter their intentions conduct that intentionally and/or recklessly damaged Gary and endangers the citizens of Gary;
4. Granting preliminary and permanent injunctive relief requiring defendants to cease causing:
 - A. Implement reasonable standards and training regarding their own distribution of handguns, as well as the conduct of the gun dealers and distributors to whom they distribute handguns, for the purpose of eliminating or substantially reducing the illegal secondary market that currently exists in Gary and elsewhere;
 - B. Cease manufacturing, distributing, or offering for sale handguns without reasonable safety devices and warnings, including devices designed to prevent unauthorized use;
5. Awarding the Plaintiff its costs and attorneys' fees; and
6. Marketing share liability as to all defendants identified:

- A. Money damages as to each and every defendant manufacturer, retailer, and distributor for all damages that cannot be attributed to a particular source, for their: negligent and careless design, manufacture, marketing, promotion, advertising and sale of guns; intentional and negligent failure to incorporate safety devices into the design of their products; intentional and negligent failure to provide adequate warnings; and for the costs incurred by the Plaintiff with regard to public health, safety, and welfare, and loss in tax revenues and property values in an amount equivalent to the national market share of each such manufacturer, distributor or retailer.
 - B. Money damages as to each and every defendant manufacturer, retailer, and distributor for all damages that cannot be attributed to a particular source, for the significant public funds expended as a result of the public nuisance regarding handguns that exists in the City of Gary, including but not limited to, police and law enforcement services, additional security in and upon public facilities, emergency medical services, pension benefits, disability benefits, workers' compensation benefits, and losses in tax revenues and property values in an amount equivalent to the national market share of each named manufacturer, distributor or retailer.
7. Granting any other legal or equitable relief that the Court deems just and appropriate.

Respectfully Submitted,
Scott L. King as Mayor of the City of Gary
